

MB 600: Research Methodology

Course Code: MB 600

Course Name: Research Methodology

L-T-P-C: 1-0-0-1

Prerequisites: None

Intended for: PhD

Mutual Exclusion: None

Approval: 60th BoA

Preamble

This 1-credit course provides an overview of research methodology fundamentals for PhD students. Students will explore the basics of research approaches, research proposal development and tools and techniques required for conducting research.

Course Modules

- Introduction to Research Methodology: Overview of research paradigms (positivism, interpretivism, critical theory). Research ethics and rigor, Copyright, plagiarism, Research Reproducibility. (4 Hours)
- Research Proposal Development: Steps from identifying a research problem to publication. Understanding Literature Reviews: Purpose and types (systematic, narrative, etc.). Search Strategies and Databases: How to search academic databases (e.g., Google Scholar, JSTOR, Scopus, Web of Science). Organizing and Synthesizing Literature: Techniques for organizing literature, identifying gaps, and synthesizing information. Identifying research gaps and formulating research questions. Developing a basic research proposal. (5 hours)
- Introduction to Key Software: Reference management, quantitative and data analysis, Survey and Data Collection Tools. (3 Hours)
- Technical and Scientific Presentations: Data Visualisation & Storytelling, Structuring a scientific presentation, Use of visual aids, Presentation delivery. (2 Hour)

Laboratory/Practical/Tutorial Modules

NA

Text Books

Instructor to provide reference material

References

1. The Craft of Research, by Wyne C. Booth, Colomb, William, University of Chicago Press (ebook).
2. Research Methodology: A Step-By-Step Guide For Beginners, by Ranjit Kumar, Publisher: Sage South Asia (2011).

-
3. Research Methodology, by R Panneerselvam, Publisher: Phi Learning (2009).
 4. Research Methodology: Methods and Techniques, by C. R Kothari, Publisher: New Age International (2004).